REPRESENTATIVE WORK

Joshua maintains a broad commercial litigation practice, working on a comprehensive set of civil matters for individuals and corporations. His practice also includes involvement in employment law matters, particularly in the education sector, where he advises clients on professional liability and human rights issues.

Joshua recognizes that successful client representation demands a tailored approach to the unique needs of each client. He brings empathy, tact, and a strategic mind to each situation so that he can effectively advocate on a client's behalf.
